Taffeta Suit For Afternoon

By La Raconteeuse.

A suit of taffeta will be generally worn for afternoon occasions. In this instance a clever combination of serge and navy taffeta is shown, the coat being long and broken at measured spaces by bias bands of serge. These graduate from two inches to five. Serge bands also trim the cape collar, and the flowing revers disappear under the skirt foundation. The metal buckle is a smart detail. A large feather trimmed milan hat and high button boots complete the outfit.

of the Children's dispensary. Miss Alma Reed gave the topic for the evening, "Home Missions a Healing Force," from the textbook. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. L. J. Harwood, Miss Maude Heath and Miss Isabelle Kennedy. Refreshments were served after the meeting. Members of the society will meet May 8, when the mite boxes will be opened.

A social meeting of Carol court No. 1005, W. C. O. F., was held last evening at the Knights of Columbus home, W. Jefferson blvd. During the business time arrangements were made for a May party to be given May 1. Cards are to be the entertaining features of the evening and refreshments will be served. A committee in charge of the meeting last evening were Mrs. Madden, Miss Lena Bowers and Miss Minnie Huff. At the close of a pleasant evening there were refreshments. Members of the court will have their regular meeting April 24.

Election of officers of the Junior league of Epworth Memorial church was held at a meeting Sunday afternoon at the church. Miss Florence King was made president; Miss Gertrude Beyer, first vice-president; Miss Dora Stull, second vice-president; Miss Elva Wells, third vice-president; Miss Lizzie Heintzelman, fourth vice-president; Miss Geraldine McPheters, treasurer; Theodore Cooper, secretary; Miss Eva O'Dell, pianist.

Members of the First M. E. church choir were entertained at the home of Mrs. Frank Rexstraw and Miss Marjorie Field, 216 Paris st., Monday. The guests were entertained in a social manner with music and various diversions. Refreshments were served by the hostesses assisted by Mrs. W. P. Taylor, Mrs. Charles Michael, Miss Martha Roberts, Miss Mary Summersill, Miss Emma Roush and Miss Mildred Timson.

SYMPATHY IS LACKING

Colored Woman Fined $5 and Costs For Intoxication by Judge.

"I have less sympathy for a woman who becomes intoxicated than with a man," declared Judge Warner in city court Tuesday morning when he fined Essel Baker, an aged colored woman, $5 and costs for being drunk. She entered a plea of guilty to the charge and her attorney pointed out that she had never been in trouble before. The judge replied with the fine. This was stayed by friends of the woman.

WORTH KNOWING

Women are liable to ailments which cause constipation, ill-health, and in which they may consult doctors without much relief. It is well worth knowing that they can get at the nearest drug store a simple medicine made of roots and herbs, which is just what they need to recover health. That medicine is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Advt.

Tea Table Talks

By May De Witt Talmage

WIDE AWAKE AND WATCHFUL.

Her eyes were ablaze with excitement as she seated herself in front of the fire, and took up a cup of tea, which she sipped as she told her story. "I could hardly wait to get here to tell you of an exciting time I had last night," she said. "I would not believe it could happen in New York if it had not happened to me, but it proved to me that Uncle Sam is 'on the job.'"

"To begin at the beginning, day before yesterday while motoring with two friends in a closed car, I was told one of those spy stories that are so rife at present. It was a thriller, as it was supposed to have happened right here in one of our hotels. Naturally incredulous about so much that I hear, I only repeated the story to my sister.

"Last night after 9 o'clock the telephone rang and I was told that a man whose name I had never heard wanted to see me. I said for him to write his business, as I was busy. He insisted, however, and when I absolutely refused to see him, he said that he must see me at once, as he was from police headquarters. That sounded not only alarming, but interesting as well, for I had never been my privilege to meet any of that kind before. What was my astonishment, however, when two keen-eyed men were ushered in, one of whom said: 'You and a Mrs. —, were lunching at the Hotel — yesterday and heard two spies planning.'"

"Amazed, I said, 'I know of no one by that name, nor have I lunched at that hotel for years.'"

"Thinking I was trying to hide something, they questioned and ascertained things. I told them I had heard that story only the day before had repeated it to only one person, as I thought it one of the many stories false or true that were circulating about. But how did my name become associated with it as chief witness?" I asked. That they could not tell, nevertheless in less than 24 hours from the time I heard it that story had gone straight up to headquarters for investigation. It made me feel as if I heard an echo of the intrigue of war. It made me realize our officials in authority are wide awake. Does any one say the United States is not alert and keen. Was not that quick work?"

It recalled an incident that happened the winter I was living in Germany. I was sitting with a group of friends when one of the women was called away by an announcement that a policeman wanted to speak to her. We waited anxiously for her return, wondering what she had done that the law should be after her. She returned with a smile on her face. "Would you believe it," she asked, "that policeman said 'when you were in Berlin years ago, you gave your age, which does not correspond with the age you gave yesterday.' Well, I told him when I was in Germany years ago I was sensitive about my age so I said I was younger than I really was. Now I am really old, and I don't care who knows it, so yesterday I gave my right age."

I have never forgotten that incident to which I was witness, for it seemed such a wonderful system. But who would think that right here in New York we have a watchful system of our own. It made me go to bed realizing I could sleep in peace, for the United States government is awake.
